The town of Nea Moudania

Nea Moudania is a small city (15 000 inhabitants) on the coast of the first peninsula of Halkidiki Region, viewing the Aegean Sea.

It is the largest urban centre in the region, quite commercial, with a lot of shops, public services, bars and restaurants. Since it's a famous holiday destination, during the summer, the population doubles and a lot of people visit the area for the crystal clear waters and the sandy beaches. Thessaloniki, the second biggest city of Greece is only half an hour by car and features an interesting cultural and historical background, as well as vivid nightlife.
